GREATEST MINING YEAR.

It is a fact that the mining industry in Nevada has never had a more successful year than the present one. The production of gold and silver has reached a record, and the value of the output has increased proportionately. This is due to a number of factors, including the discovery of new mines, the improvement of old ones, and the efficient management of the industry.

OBSERVATIONS.

There probably is plenty of food for thought in Russia for Bill Haywood.

George Bergdahl, marine aviator, is said to have fled from Germany. We would suggest Russia as a proper asylum.

Frenchmen feel that new water and the English language at the armament limitation conference will be a doubly fatal thrust at France.

A New York doctor says that as civilization progresses, women grow uglier. Maybe that is why so many men persist in seeing film actresses.

SILVER FIND ON ORLEAN MINE IS REPORTED RICH

A wonderfully rich silver and lead ore deposit has been discovered on the Orlean mine, operated by the Orlean Mining Company. The discovery was made by a team of prospectors who were exploring the mine for new veins of ore. The deposit is reported to be one of the richest ever found in the area.

The Orlean Mining Company is a well-known and successful mining enterprise. It has a long history of discovery and production of valuable minerals. The company is currently engaged in a large-scale development project on the Orlean mine, and the discovery of this rich deposit is a significant milestone in the project.

The discovery of this rich silver and lead ore deposit is a major achievement for the Orlean Mining Company. It is expected that the deposit will provide a significant source of income for the company and contribute to the local economy. The company is currently planning to begin production of the ore in the near future.

HUNDRED MINE RESCUE TEAMS ENTER CONTEST

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—One hundred mine rescue and first aid teams, representing 25 states and Canada and Mexico, will compete for honors at the annual International First Aid and Mine Rescue contest here September 1, 2 and 3.

The contest is held under the auspices of the United States Bureau of Mines, in co-operation with mine operators' associations, miners' organizations, the National Safety Council and the Red Cross.

Under conditions approximating as closely as possible those found in mines during disastrous fires and explosions, teams will rescue supposedly entrapped miners from a specially constructed gallery and other frame will administer first aid to supposedly injured miners.

John J. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, United States Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington, chairman of the Senate committee on mines, and approximately two mining men from all parts of the country are expected to attend the meeting.

Robert L. Smith, director of the United States Bureau of Mines at Washington, said the purpose of the meeting was to promote greater safety in the mining industry. "Explains the meeting," he said.

"As an industry, which in this country alone employs more than a million men in hazardous work, it is imperative that greater safety and efficiency in mining have been gained in the past few years. Today, these contests are looked upon by mine owners as one of the greatest events in the industry. With more than 100 teams having voluntarily taken the hours' prescribed training course in first aid and rescue work and with these men organized into teams at the various mines throughout the country for the promotion of the welfare of their fellow workers, their participation in the contests promises to make the event a humanitarian effort of great moment."

Getting near the time when men will put on heavier clothes and women discard their summer furs.

Andrew Manson, who has gained some fame because of her announcement that she had an ambition to marry a physically perfect man, being reputed to possess some physical perfection herself, is after all feminine. Now she doesn't want to marry a man who doesn't woo her. In short, she wants to go through the regular process which man and maid have pursued since the cave.
